The BJA also provides two additional membership schemes:

INTRODUCTORY MEMBERSHIP: For Juniors or Seniors

With many clubs starting beginners courses the BJA Introductory licences are available for both seniors and juniors.

Introductory licences are valid for a three month period and include the benefit of national governing body membership, full BJA personal accident and public liability insurance cover.

RECREATIONAL MEMBERSHIP: For Seniors only

A lot of people in our sport no longer grade or compete at competitions or are club secretaries, Table Officials. These members still want the reassurance of BJA membership and the insurance cover that it provides. Recreational Membership of the BJA is the answer for them, with cover against 5 million civil liabilities and 100,000 personal accidents. Recreational Membership meets the needs of the non-competitive judo player.

Matside Magazine.

In addition to all of the above benefits the British Judo Association provides as part of your membership fee probably the best insurance scheme of any Sports Governing Body (see the BJA Website for details – www.britishjudo.org.uk).

If you are not sure which category suits you or have any other membership questions please do not hesitate to contact BJA Head Office:
